

Word Maps

Another way of taking good notes is to use word maps. A word map consists of connected circles, each with important information in it. These circles connect ideas with lines from one circle to another. The large central circles contain main ideas, and the outer connected circles contain supporting or related details. The information usually starts from the center and moves outward as the information gets more specific.

